Would you like to work for an organization with this mission? If so, consider working for the Canadian Foodgrains Bank.

Canadian Foodgrains Bank Association is recruiting for a DIRECTOR of FINANCE.

Managing a team of four finance staff and a $45+ million budget, the director is responsible for overseeing and directing the financial affairs of the Association, and ensuring the provision of high-quality and forward-thinking financial services.

The ideal candidate will bring a strong combination of experience and education in financial management, preferably in a non-profit setting, a recognized accounting designation, and a service orientation. Fluency in English, and knowledge of CRA rules for non-profit organizations are essential for success in this role. Knowledge of international development and grant management are assets.

The successful candidate must identify with the Christian mission of the agency and be active in a Christian faith community.

Application deadline is February 25, with a June 1 proposed start date.
